Summary: A set of procedures for the Definition, Delimitation, and Activation of World Electoral and Administrative Districts (WEADs), a Global WEADs Plan, the infrastructure required for the Register of Citizens and a Global Voter Database, for the Universal Identification System, and the World Elections System, and rules for democratic participation.

Date: December 8th, 2025.

World Legislative Law #

Short title: Elections procedures

The Provisional World Parliament (PWP):

Considering that the Earth Constitution provides for the operation, in its article 19, of a World Elections Commission (WEC) to "prepare a provisional global map of WEADs and Regions, which may be revised during the first or second operative stage of World Government, and shall prepare and proceed with plans to obtain the election of Members of the World Parliament to the House of Peoples and the House of Counsellors. The World Elections Commission (WEC) shall in due course be converted into the World Boundaries and Elections Administration" (WBEA);

Considering that the WEC has been meeting in recent years and has prepared some of the material that corresponds to it;

Considering that World Legislative Act 29 (adopted August 2004, in Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, India, at eighth session of the PWP) provides for the activation of the WBEA, function delegated to the World Service Authority (WSA); and that the WEC updated, through a Memorandum of Understanding, the relations with the WSA (11/30/2022, and ECI / WCPA Board 03/05/2023);

Considering that the WEC approved the infrastructure to be developed to facilitate the elections during the provisional stage (01/16/2025);

Considering that the WEC approved (06/30/2024) the guidelines for defining and delimiting the WEADs, defined them, awarded the number of Districts per Region and the world WEADs Plan;

Considering that the WEC updated World Legislative Act 72, adapting it to the provisional stage (approved by the Commission 07/14/2024, and by the ECI / WCPA Board of Directors 05/03/2023 and 03/10/2023, in item 6 of the agenda), with the Protocol for the formation of WEADs in the Provisional Government stage;

Considering that since the adoption of World Legislative Act 67 (Guideline Call for the Direct Popular Referendum regarding the Ratification of the Earth Constitution) at the 14th Session of the PWP in December 2015, conditions have changed considerably;

Considering that the definition and delimitation of the WEADs, a Global Voter Database, a Universal Identification System, and a World Elections System are required in the first instance;

Considering that the WEC approved (12/19/2024) the Rules for the operation of the Ordinary Sessions of the PWP;

Considering that during the provisional stage this series of instruments is required in order to promote the ratification of the Earth Constitution;

Considering that the Earth Constitution has adequate provisions for both representative democracy and for direct democracy; defined in Article 8, Section C., for a WBEA to meet this need;

Considering that Article 17, Section 1.5. of the Earth Constitution stipulates, “In the event that a national government, after six months, fails to submit the World Constitution for ratification as requested, then the global agency assuming responsibility for the worldwide ratification campaign may proceed to conduct a direct referendum for ratification of the World Constitution by the people. Direct referendums may be organized on the basis of entire nations or countries, or on the basis of existing defined communities within nations;”

Considering that by the end of December of 1977, every national government on Earth had failed to submit the Earth Constitution for ratification by the people, and whereas 48 years have passed since the failure of that deadline, and repeated failures have elapsed since that time, with only the slimmest likelihood of any future success, the time has arrived for the direct popular referendum independent of the national electoral systems, though direct popular referendum does not preclude national electoral systems from concurrently taking their own action through established electoral systems;

Considering that Article 17, Section 1.6. of the Earth Constitution stipulates, “In the event of a direct ratification referendum, final ratification shall be accomplished by a majority of the votes cast whether for an entire nation or for a World Electoral and Administrative District, provided that ballots are cast by a minimum of twenty-five percent of eligible voters of the area who are over eighteen years of age;”

The delegates of the 16th Session of the Provisional World Parliament proclaim the following law:

TITLE I. Introduction

Article I.1. World Legislative Acts repealed

The following World Legislative Acts are hereby repealed:

- ✓ Act 29 (2004/2013) World Boundary and Election Administration and Provisions for the Global People's Assembly.
- ✓ Act 67 (2015) Call for a Direct Popular Referendum on the Earth Constitution.
- ✓ Act 72 (2021) World District Standards.

Article I.2. Compendium.

In its place, the following compendium of six titles, which combines the existing aspects of those three repealed Legislative Acts and updates the legislation, is hereby approved for the provisional phase. Once the First Operational Phase has been established, the World Parliament shall enact the necessary final laws.

TITLE II. Guide to defining and delimiting Electoral Districts

Article II.1. WEADs

The Earth Constitution (Art. 2.4) establishes the WEADs: The basic direct electoral and administrative units of the World Government shall be WEADs. A total of not more than 1,000 WEADs shall be defined, and shall be nearly equal in population, within the limits of plus or minus ten percent.

A WEAD is then:

- ✓ A basic unit, the smallest piece of the world government.
- ✓ An administrative body: to exercise certain functions of the world government (non-local, does not interfere with national governments and their subdivisions, is only for world affairs).
- ✓ An electoral body, to elect officials (Chamber of Peoples).
- ✓ A cultural and social unit. When delimiting them, these aspects must be taken into account: culture, language, religion, customs, etc.
- ✓ It is desirable that it be a comprehensive socioeconomic unit.

- ✓ There are 1,000 at most on the entire planet. Therefore, it has been determined, for the current population of the planet (year 2022), that each WEAD must have a population of 8,000,000 inhabitants (+/- 10%: from 7,200,000 to 8,800,000 inhabitants).

- ✓ They are grouped into 20 Regions worldwide (Art. 2.5).

- ✓ As far as possible, national borders should be respected, so as not to divide sectors belonging to one country into different WEADs, or unite sectors from different countries in a single WEAD. Let us remember, however, that national unity is guaranteed and contemplated in the House of Nations. The WEADs are units to democratize management at a global level, with a holistic vision. The objective is for citizens to begin to feel like Citizens of the World, beyond nationality, ethnicity, religion, culture, etc. Planners must put a lot of effort into this.

This is a general guideline, and there will be exceptions, in order to comply with the previous guidelines. For example, in small countries (with less than 8,000,000 inhabitants), or in countries where the population is not a multiple of 8,000,000 inhabitants.

These are then the guidelines to define and delimit WEADs. Not all of these guidelines can be satisfied simultaneously and completely. However, all efforts must be exhausted to achieve this.

The WEADs are to be combined as appropriate to make up a total of twenty Electoral and Administrative Regions.

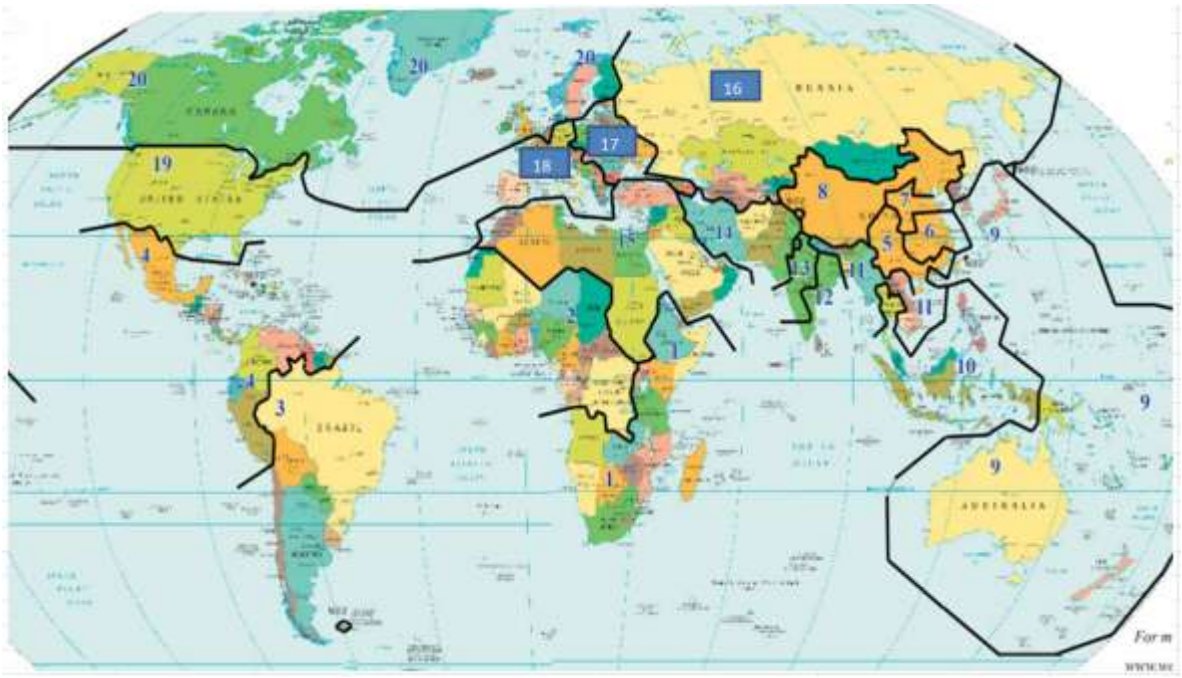

Contiguous WEADs shall be combined as may be appropriate to compose a total of twenty World Electoral and Administrative Regions.

The precise delimitation of the WEADs can be carried out by the WEC, or by the members of the WEADs of a Region (with the approval of the WEC). This is desirable, since they are the ones who know the territory and the people best.

The process can be automated, with the support of external professional entities, but always following the guidelines established in this Legislative Act.

Article II.2. Regions

The 20 Regions are visualized in the following map:

In the attachment (WEADs Worldly Plan.xls) the list of countries for each region are listed.

The distribution plan of WEADs by region is as follows:

Region / Región	Population / Población	Quantity of WEADs / Número Dttos	Numeration / Numeración

20	245.238.069	31	1 to 31
TOTAL	7.767.653.144	1.000

Article II.3. Special cases

Cases of areas in claim: There are special delicate cases, such as areas in claim or dispute. First of all, let us remember that WEADs are global administrative and electoral units, and therefore, not associated with a particular country. However, in cases of disputed or claimed areas, it is advisable to be very careful in the way they are integrated into a District. Thus, each case must be handled considering these aspects.

Cases of countries with small populations: We also have the case of countries with a small population. In these cases, several join together to form a District.

Cases of ethnic groups, linguistic groups, and cultural identity: There are thousands of ethnic groups in the world, hundreds of which have populations between one and eight million inhabitants. Wherever possible, the unity of ethnic groups will be considered in the WEADs.

Article II.4. Global Plan

The approximate range that corresponds to each country is shown there. However, when delimiting each Region, it is necessary to take into account that normally the population of a country is not an exact multiple of 8,000,000, so the adjustment has been made at the level of each Region, so that each region meets with what is established in the previous table. Additionally, small countries must be grouped with neighboring countries to complete a WEAD.

TITLE III. Protocol for the formation of WEADs in the stage of Provisional Government

Article III.1. Protocol

The unity in diversity, that is the founding principle for the Earth Constitution, disallows the fantasy of individual units in the Earth Federation acting autonomously independently of the rest of humanity or of the Federation as a whole. The spurious notion of "nation-state sovereignty" is just such a destructive fantasy. Human freedom and self-realization require an environing community from the level of individual persons to the level of democratic world government. At the highest level all areas of the Earth are governed, of course, by the World Parliament, a unity in diversity of people, governments, and counselors (representing the whole). Individuals and communities are empowered by their leadership and lawmaking, but are never autonomous and independent of this democratic framework for the whole.

The next level of democratic authority under the World Parliament regarding WEADs is the WBEC. Our present WEC, meeting periodically and sponsored by ECI / WCPA, is performing some of the responsibilities of the WBEA.

Each of the 1,000 local WEADs will have its own Commission with the responsibilities listed in the Legislative Act. But the registration information and data about the WEADs will necessarily be also housed with the WBEA (that is why rules for the use and security of data are essential). Such data and rules are essential to the multiple responsibilities of the WBEA. Even the conducting of elections in local WEADs requires oversight from the WEC and ultimately the WBEA. WEADs will not mirror in any way the fantasy notion of individual sovereignty independent of the larger human community. The WEC will need to expand (as resources and personnel increase) to begin these functions, such as preparing voter information booklets (we cannot have rich people conducting media campaigns, etc.), the rules for political parties, etc.

1. For the Delimitation and Organization of the WEADs the mandates of the Earth Constitution will be followed and it will be a priority task of the ECI / WCPA, above any other task.

2. The ECI / WCPA will accelerate actions to delimit at least 100 WEADs in the short term.

3. During the Provisional World Government, WEADs will have a very simple structure:
   a. District Assembly,
   b. Representative to the Provisional World Parliament,
   c. Representative before the House of Peoples (when it is decided to install it) and
   d. Permanent Electoral Committee.

   The District Assembly will be made up of sixty people, with their alternates.

   The Permanent Electoral Committee will be made up of three people, with their alternates.

   During the Provisional World Government, the positions held will be ad honorem.

4. To start the process, in each of the delimited WEADs, a Promoter Team of at least three people will be promoted, who have ratified the Earth Constitution and obtained Universal Unique Identification. This team will act as the Provisional District Assembly.

   The basic functions of this team are to promote the registration of World Citizens in their WEAD, the individual signature of the Earth Constitution by them, and to establish goals for the systematic increase in the number of registered voters. They will be awarded a special certificate with their accreditation and functions, as WEAD delegates to the PWP.

   Until the election of the Permanent Electoral Team, this team will also act as the Provisional Electoral Team and its members may participate in other responsibilities in the WEAD.

   To identify the WEAD, while the number is assigned, a name will be used, selected by the Promotion Team.

5. The WEC will interact with said promotion teams to facilitate their task of promoting the Earth Constitution, the Earth Constitution elections and ratification process. To this end, the aforementioned commissions must:
   a. Delimit 100 priority WEADs, with the active participation of the interested parties.
   b. Grant each of the registered persons a Universal Unique Identification number, preferably automatically generated.
   c. Provide, for each delimited WEAD, a register of persons with the right to vote. The Register of World Citizens will be centralized worldwide.
   d. Arrange in the same registry, those persons with the right to be elected for each of the positions, and who have expressed in writing their desire to nominate themselves for any of the functions of the WEAD.
   e. Establish a secure online Elections System in which all registered persons can participate.
   f. Provide informative content to prepare promotional material.
   g. Advise the members of the Promotion Team and the Permanent Electoral Committee and support them in the electoral processes.

   Note: Points c and d can be delegated to the promoter team if they request it and show that they are qualified to carry them out efficiently and objectively.

6. Once sufficient promotion has been made in a WEAD, the Promotion Team (Provisional District Assembly), with the support of the WEC, will carry out an election/ratification process to:
   a. Elect the representative before the PWP.
   b. Elect the representative before the House of Peoples, when it is decided to install it.
   c. Elect the District Assembly.
   d. Elect The Permanent Electoral Committee,
   e. Ratify the Earth Constitution.

   While the elections process is taking place, the Promotion Team (Provisional District Assembly) will act as the Provisional Electoral Team and as the Provisional District Assembly and will elect from among its members the representative before the Provisional World Parliament and the representative before the House of Peoples.

7. The electoral/ratification process will open on the publicly announced date and time, and may be extended for as long as necessary until the required minimum number of voters is reached. An electoral process may be opened jointly or separately for each of the five processes indicated in point 6, with priority being given to points “a” (representative of the PWP) and “e” (Ratification of the Earth Constitution).

8. ECI / WCPA's role is to support the process and will become less necessary over time.

TITLE IV. Earth Constitution Ratification Process, and Elections, by WEADs (67)

Article IV.1. Participation

All citizens registered in the Global Voter Database and the Universal Identification System will be able to participate in elections for the ratification of the Earth Constitution and for selection of representatives.

There is no requirement regarding citizenship in the collection, safekeeping and counting of ballots for the election.

There is no requirement that voters give any prior allegiance to the Earth Constitution before participating in elections.

Voter identification will require an ID issued by the Global Identification System and the structure of a Global Voter Database. The Electoral Commission of each WEAD will maintain the registry based on these structures.

Article IV.2. Rules for the participation of organizations in referendums and elections in WEADs

IV.2.1. Rules:

Organizations of any type that wish to participate in referendum and election processes in the WEADs must adhere to the following rules:

1. The organization must register with the WBEA, providing the following information, duly registered/notarized:
    a. Formal identification data of the organization. Name, logos, slogans.
    b. Statutes formally registered with a recognized authority in the geographic scope of the respective WEAD.
    c. Official declaration of principles.
    d. Names and details of the general representatives of the organization, as well as at the WEAD level.
    e. Formal declaration of acceptance of constitutional principles, as detailed below.
    f. Any other information that the WBEA considers necessary.

2. The participation of duly registered organizations will be referential, to promote an option (YES/NO in the case of referendums, or a candidacy in the case of elections). Their names will not appear on any voting instrument.

IV.2.2. Declaration of acceptance of constitutional principles

The organization recognizes the Earth Constitution and its principles. Therefore, the registration must be accompanied by a formal sworn document in which it commits to adhere to the fundamental principles of the Earth Constitution:

- ✓ Article 1. General functions of the Earth Federation. A World Government that is dedicated only to those aspects that go beyond the reach of national governments, which are delegated to them by them.

- ✓ Recognition of the federated parliamentary nature of the world government, non-military, with binding decisions that apply to institutions and individuals, of a democratic nature, without any type of veto, under the principle of Unity in Diversity.

Likewise, it must include a comprehensive declaration of its democratic nature, in the following terms:

"We are committed to following fundamental principles that reflect our vision of a just, equal and respectful society. The following statement addresses our position:

1. Democracy and Citizen Participation:
   a. We believe in democracy as the most fair and equitable system for making collective decisions.

2. We promote active citizen participation in decision-making and the construction of public policies.

3. Non-Discrimination:
   a. We reject any form of discrimination, whether based on race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, ethnic origin or any other reason.
   b. We are committed to fighting discrimination in all its manifestations and promoting equal opportunities for all.

3. Anti-racism, anti-fascism and Tolerance:
   a. We are anti-racist. We recognize that racism is a scourge that weakens our society and perpetuates inequalities.
   b. We promote tolerance, respect and peaceful coexistence among all people, regardless of their origin or culture.

4. Education and Awareness:
   a. We advocate for inclusive education that promotes diversity and mutual understanding.
   b. We will work to raise awareness in society about the importance of eradicating prejudices and stereotypes.

5. Transparency and Accountability:
   a. We are committed to being a transparent organization in our actions and decisions.

b. We will be accountable to the citizens and submit to public scrutiny.

In summary, we commit to being an actor that defends democracy, combats discrimination and promotes equality. This statement reflects our vision and values."

Article IV.3. Nomination and Election of Members to the World Parliament

The WBEA will plan the details for the nomination and election of PWP delegates to the House of Peoples and the House of Councilors. WEADs will actively participate in this process. The WBEA may adjust the submitted electoral procedure proposals accordingly.

After a thorough definition, the WBEA will present the plans to the PWP.

This Act requires a solemn commitment of support for the Earth Constitution from any citizen of the world who stands as a candidate in any campaign for the House of Peoples or the House of Councilors.

Article IV.4. Conducting Elections

The WBEA shall conduct measured elections as soon as possible.

In each WEAD, the process will be carried out by its corresponding Electoral Commission.

If a nationally organized final ratification is being conducted, the nation may enforce its own pre-established rules regarding electoral campaigns for the nationally organized portion. Nations must not enforce national rules on the election. Interference in the elections is a world class 3 felony.

The printed voting record must contain the elector's legible ID number, printed name, legible date of vote and space for the signature.

The Electoral Committee shall post these General Guidelines in a conspicuous and legible position at the polling place during the entire time that the polling place is open.

Upon elector request, the Electoral Committee may give electors correct technical instruction regarding the proper form in which to fill out ballots without this being construed as electioneering.

The Electoral Committee may use video or other camera equipment at the polling place to help prevent the casting of multiple ballots, or to otherwise assure the integrity of the election.

Under Article 12 Item 5, the Earth Constitution guarantees the freedom to vote without duress. Insofar as possible, the Electoral Committee shall endeavor to protect the personal secrecy of the ballots.

Postal voting (casting of ballots via public or private mail services) is prohibited. The Electoral Committee may ship blank ballots for distribution to polling places. The Electoral Committee may report results of election counts by mail, subject to verification procedures to be established by the WBEA, subject to review and approval by PWP.

Proxy voting is prohibited in the elections.

Security of the ballot. Electors shall deposit their ballot within the ballot containers provided by the election officials. The collected ballots are to be kept under continual secure conditions, locked in containers until the time of the public counting of the ballots, and with provisions to protect the ballots from water damage and fire damage.

Repositories of the Polls. Within each WEAD, the Electoral Commission shall decide upon at least one place within that WEAD to be the Repository of the cast ballots of the Direct Popular Referendum. The safest place within any WEAD where the people might most securely and publicly count and conserve the cast ballots is to be the Repository. The Elections Commission shall guard the repository 24 hours, 7 days per week, without unguarded periods. People may use multiple guards to accommodate reasonable rest periods and to accommodate religious observances of the guards. Guards shall give oath or affirmation to guard the repository for electoral integrity. People must not require guards to either be for the Earth Constitution, nor against the Earth Constitution, but people will find, to be on duty at all times, at least one guard each, for and against the Earth Constitution, yet willing and committed to guard the integrity of the election. Multiple guards may be used to ensure security. If for any reason, the Electoral Committee considers that there is no safe repository within the WEAD, then the People shall contact the standing parliamentary committees of the PWP to inform them of the danger, with recommendation of what is to be done to conserve the integrity of the election. The standing committees and the ECI / WCPA officials contacted shall respond to help conserve the integrity of the ballots cast from the world district in question.

Electioneering (Political campaigning). Away from the specific place and time of polling, People may politic, taking stands on soap boxes, hold teach-ins or workshops or other publicized or no publicized meetings in favor of the Earth Constitution or against the Earth Constitution, or to promote candidates. People may use placards, signs, symbolic clothing, rent billboards, etc. However, at the time and place of the collection of ballots, people shall refrain from electioneering. Within thirty minutes before and after the opening of any polling place, and fifty meters (about 50 meters) of any designated polling place, people will refrain from telling one another or suggesting to one another which way to vote in the election. Prohibited behaviors include the use of placards, signs, clothing or buttons indicating which way to vote (for or against Earth Constitution), speaking, shouting, singing or any further inducement or behavioral indication that might serve to intimidate voters.

Time of the Election: As the elections do not have the resources of any nationally sponsored, nationally conducted ballot, and as the number of potential voters is so vast, the election itself is not limited to any particular election day, but rather will take as long as it takes to receive ballots from at least one-quarter of the electorate of the WEADs. The time required might conceivably be more than a year to up to several years. People may publicly count the ballots on interim bases for purposes of publicity and getting out the vote regarding the election.

Pre-existing System: The PWP strongly recommends wording the referendum of Ratification as a selection between these two options: 1) the pre-existing world system as defined under the United Nations Charter; and 2) the Earth Constitution. This is because the pre-existing world system will undoubtedly continue under the United Nations Charter if people do not elect the Earth Constitution through the Direct Popular Referendum. Therefore, it is reasonable and meaningful to frame the election in this manner.

State or national election law. Insofar as state or national election law in a WEAD is not obstructive of the elections regarding the Earth Constitution, world legislation upholds the state and national election law. State and national election laws are generally in effect for the elections. The Electoral Committee and electors shall comply with these laws, insofar as they do not obstruct the elections. The Electoral Committee is not required to get permission from local election boards for conducting the elections. The Electoral Committee must not request or demand that state or national electoral systems provide ballots or resources for the election. The Electoral Committee must not include any topic question or candidate on the election ballot that would be of a local, state or national jurisdiction under world federal law. The Electoral Committee must not name or link any local elections board on the election that would claim or indicate that the election is being conducted by permission or Call under the auspices of any local elections board. The election is a world federal jurisdiction. To respect jurisdiction, election officials generally must not refer suspected violations regarding the election to local, state or national law endorcement, but rather to world federal law enforcement. Exception is if a national government has given preliminary ratification to the Earth Constitution, agreeing to participate in cooperation with the Earth Federation regarding world federal enforcement. If a question of legality arises, a world district court of 3 world federal judges may decide the question. If the judges decide that the question is for resolution by local judicial matters, the WEAD may remand the question to a local jurisdiction. Regarding the election, any other question of legality is strictly in the jurisdiction of the World Court System under the Earth Constitution. Interference against the election is a world class 3 felony.

Public counting of Ballots. Each WEAD, with the guidance of the WBEA is responsible to record the public counting of the ballots for that respective WEAD, whether the counting is a preliminary count or a final count. WBEA and the Electoral Committee shall endeavor to have a representative present at the public counting of ballots for the respective WEAD, and a representative present for the public counting at adjacent WEADs. The Electoral Committee and the public may use video recording equipment at the public counting of ballots. However, people must not allow video equipment to block election officials' view of the public count. The Electoral Committee may manage the location of particular cameras to prevent obstruction of view to the election officials.

Article IV.5. Voter Information Office

This Act establishes the Voter Information Office to include not only campaign positions of candidates, but also printed versions of world legislation, the Earth Constitution, world governmental reports and bulletins, projections, commentaries, and other materials. The Office may include a section dedicated for political parties, although the WBEA does not finance the printing costs for participating parties. Participating parties will have a quota of space in the party section, according to conditions decided by the WBEA.

Article IV.6. Legislative Initiatives

Initiatives are electoral processes that have originated directed from the People. By initiative signed by at least 200,000 citizens, the People may initiate World Parliamentary debate directly. The People turn in the signed initiative to the WBEA. The WBEA presents the initiative at the PWP. Initiatives shall conform to the basic professional legislative drafting guidelines adopted by the PWP. This Act recommends world citizens to ensure conformity with guidelines before circulating initiative for citizens' signatures, as the WBEA may discard ambiguous or incomprehensible initiatives.

Article IV.7. Legislative Referendums and Plesbicites

World Referendums are electoral processes that have originated from the PWP, but that are voted upon directly by the People. During the provisional stage of world government, the PWP may conduct referendums, or until an operative electoral voter registry is established in a WEAD, the PWP may conduct referendums outside of the general elections and measured voting process. As soon as feasible, world citizens will vote upon legislative referendums during general elections, or in special elections, within a measurable vote.

World Plebiscites are electoral processes that have originated either directly from the People, or from the PWP. World Plebiscites are voted upon by the People. However, the WBEA may conduct World Plebiscites at sub-jurisdictional levels, as defined in the Earth Constitution.

Article IV.8. Use of Technology.

This Act promotes the use of information and communications technology at all levels to create a better and stronger world democratic process.

Article IV.9. Children's and Youth's Participation

This Act commends the Children's World Parliament and the World Parliament of Youth. This Act recognizes the great importance for the education of youth in civic responsibility.

The WBEA shall include budgetary provisions for youth participation and parliamentary training in the annual budget of the WBEA.

TITLE V. Rules for the operation of the ordinary sessions of the PWP

Article V.1. Composition of the PWP

The Earth Constitution clearly establishes the requirements for accreditation before the PWP, in article 19.3 (19.c):

Composition of the PWP:

1. The PWP shall be composed of the following members:

    1. All those who were accredited as delegates to the 1977 and 1991 Sessions of the World Constituent Assembly, as well as to any previous Session of the PWP, and who re-confirm their support for the Constitution for the Federation of Earth, as amended.

    2. Persons
        i. who obtain the required number of signatures on election petitions, or
        ii. who are designated by Non-Governmental Organizations which adopt approved resolutions for this purpose, or
        iii. who are otherwise accredited according to terms specified in Calls which may be issued to convene particular sessions of the PWP.

    3. Members of the PWP to the House of Peoples who are elected from WEADs up to the time of convening the PWP.

    4. Members of the PWP to the House of Nations who are elected by national legislatures or appointed by national governments up to the time of convening the PWP.

    5. Those universities and colleges which have ratified the Earth Constitution may nominate persons to serve as Members of the PWP to the House of Counsellors.

    Being a signatory to the Earth Constitution is not established as a mandatory condition, although it is highly desirable.

As we have discussed, a range of possibilities could be considered: signing the Earth Constitution in its entirety; affirming a series of established basic principles, which represent the basic aspects of the Constitution; or even affirming the overall concept of the Constitution, without that means affirming all its content.

Therefore, there are various forms of accreditation for delegates:

1. TYPE 1. All participants in the different World Constituent Assemblies and in the fifteen preceding sessions of the PWP.

   The Preparatory Commission of the PWP will make a list of these people, researching the historical documents of the PWP, and will notify them privately and publicly, asking them to reconfirm as signatory of the Constitution.

2. TYPE 2. Delegates from the WEADs activated according to the approved protocol.

   Each activated WEAD, duly registered with the WEC, may appoint one main delegate and two alternates.

b. Minutes Secretary
A minutes secretary will be elected at the beginning of the session, who will mainly record the agreements, which will be published online during the PWP sessions.

c. Session format
The sessions will be held in a mixed format: a main face-to-face session and online participation through videoconferencing and online voting systems.

For the face-to-face session, logistical provisions must be made, trying, as far as possible, to comply with the provisions of article 19.1.3. In particular, an appropriate location (accessible, safe, with privacy), adequate sound, Wi-Fi and sufficient Internet connection for accredited participants, logistics for attendees (food, accommodation, transportation), technical equipment (computers, video beam projectors, remote participation and online voting system), security and first aid must be considered.

d. Quorum
Every effort will be made to ensure the participation required by the Constitution (Article 19.1.3). However, given the logistical and financial difficulties, priority will be given to holding the session and fulfilling the agenda, over the number of accredited persons.

e. Speech rights

The Parliament Chairperson will grant the floor in the order in which they are requested, to the delegates with the right to speak. He will periodically read out the names of the following persons listed.

The presentation of reports may not exceed 15 minutes.

The presentation of proposals will have a limit of 10 minutes.

Participations with opinions and questions will have a limit of one minute, extendable to 3.

Most important elements have been adapted to the PWP, from the document “Protocol for a Constituent Assembly” (March 2003, Bangkok, Thailand), regarding the rules for the debate.

The Chairperson will consider out of place any participation that is not clearly relevant to the matters defined in the agenda.

Accredited delegates may present proposals for legislative acts or others, by means of a written document addressed to the organizing agent, which must be received at least 90 days before the session. All proposals of more than thirty-five words must be submitted in writing before the end of the first day of the session.

Proposals may be submitted at the time indicated on the Agenda. Proposals supported will be read once at the session. After the reading, up to three minutes may be allowed for presentation. Questions for clarification may then be asked, but no critical statements may be made. Responses to questions for clarification will be limited to a total time of seven minutes per proposal, which will be monitored electronically by the Secretary of the Assembly, with the presenter given a one-minute notice to conclude each response for clarification. Any debate on the merits of any proposal will not take place until the session has decided whether to accept the proposal for deliberation by a simple majority vote.

Voting will take place after the conclusion of its readings. After the vote, but before deliberations begin, the Steering Committee will post a spreadsheet to the Assembly to audit the results of the score sheet.

The delegates, by a simple two-thirds majority, may expel any participant from the session, if it is determined that he or she is acting in an obstructive manner.

During sessions, the Presidium will meet daily and may make changes to the Agenda, if it deems necessary. The Secretary will publish a daily report of the proceedings, as well as the list of all session participants before the third day. The Presidium will publish a final list of participants at the end of the session.

Unless otherwise specified, a simple majority vote of the delegates will decide all questions.

Voting by proxy is prohibited and each delegate will have only one vote.

Questions of procedure, including these Rules of Procedure, will not be debated at sessions. During sessions, the Chairperson's decisions are final on the procedural conduct of the Assembly.

Robert's Rules of Order will supplement these Rules of Procedure, but will not supersede them on any point of possible variation.

f. Voting and participation

Voting will be carried out electronically, both for in-person attendees and for online participants.

A group of communications will be prepared, through some “social media” system that includes all accredited participants. In that group, the agenda and the points to be voted on will be published, one by one. Participants will be able to vote online, using their mobile phone equipment, or a computer, observing the results online.

A second group of communications will be prepared for observers, in which everything published in the group of accredited participants will be published, but without access to voting.

A third group will be prepared for the Presidium, in order to interact among its members.

It will be essential to have Internet and Wi-Fi at the physical site of the conference, with capacity for at least 100 people.

The virtual part of the meeting would be through a platform, such as Google Meet, Zoom, or similar, and voting via WhatsApp, for example.

Those with limited bandwidth can participate in the session via WhatsApp, since each agenda item, the voting options, and the survey would be posted in the group. Participants via WhatsApp could even vote at any time (it could be considered to leave voting open for a period of several hours).

A technical table will be created, under the Ratification Commission, to prepare the technical platform for Google Meet and WhatsApp.
